Literacy How-To: Reaching Every Child

Evidence-based literacy instruction benefits every child. It is imperative for those who are most at risk for being at the bottom of the achievement gap. Known as "SEEDS" students, this group is comprised of: Struggling readers and learners from all socioeconomic groups, Economically disadvantaged children, English language learners, and students with Dyslexia, and Specific Learning Disabilities.

Stay tuned in the coming months as we discuss how to reach every child. In the meantime, check out these opportunities for learning how to do so.
